2023 mayoral elections: Who owns Freetown?

By Ishmael Dumbuya

Smiling mayor Aki-Sawyer is confident of getting a second bite

Mohamed Gento-Kamara believes he will break the traditional pattern in Freetown

The race for Freetown mayoral election seems to be very tight-fisted particularly as there's a new kid on the block who is to some extent very influential especially as he is running under the ticket of the incumbent administration, the Sierra Leone Peoples Party (SLPP), and the incumbent mayor running under the All People's Congress Party (APC). Having assessed the candidature of the two people, I will like to highlight a brief comparative analysis between the two candidates. For the sake of emphasis, we want to know who really owns Freetown.

Well, to a larger extent some might say Yvonne Aki-Sawyer is fully in control of Freetown, while others state that Gento could be a better mayor for FCC.

Parliament assures passing into law reviewed Child Rights Bill

Chairperson of the Parliamentary Committee on Gender and Children's Affairs has assured the public that Parliament will on Thursday debate the reviewed Child Rights Bill and subsequently enact it into law so as to enhance the protection of the rights of children across the country.

The said bill was presented to Parliament in February 24, 2023 and the Child Rights Coalition - Sierra Leone (CRC - SL), constituting various civil society organizations including Save the Children, Care Sierra Leone, among several others, had urged Members of Parliament to pass it into law before the dissolution of the Fifth Parliament on the 25th of April.

According to Hon. Katherine Z. Tarawally, chairperson of the committee in Parliament, the House places premium on the protection of the rights of children across the country and that come Thursday, April 13th, Parliament will conduct the third reading of the bill and thereafter passed it into law.

"We are very much particular about the rights of children and we take the reviewed child rights bill very seriously. We are going to do third reading of the bill on Thursday and pass it into law, God willing," she assured.

Meanwhile, at a press conference held recently, the Child Rights

Coalition commended the Minister of Gender and Children's Affairs for presenting the Bill to Parliament on 24th February, 2023.

They noted that the coalition has worked closely with the National Commission for Children (NCC) and the Human Rights Commission of Sierra Leone to engage the Legislative Committee and the Parliamentary Committee on Gender and Children's Affairs.

In line with the United Nations Convention of the Rights of the Child, Sierra Leone adopted and enacted the Child Rights Act in 2007, but the said Act, according to the Coalition, has some gaps that needed to be factored in the new bill.

If passed into law, the new bill will help strengthen the fight against child marriage as section 5 (1) provides that, 'No person shall contract a marriage of whatever kind with a child or give consent to the marriage of a child.'

Section (5) further gives more powers to judiciary to prevent child marriage, providing that "Where a Judge is satisfied that a child marriage has been arranged or is about to be solemnized, the Judge shall issue an injunction against the adult contracting party, the parent, guardian or person having charge of the child and the person intending to officiate or conduct the child marriage.

Sexual relations with a child is prohibited under the Sexual Offences Act 2012 (as amended in 2019) and Sierra Leone has also pledged to End Child Marriage and had even drafted an Abolition of Early Marriage Bill, from which these provisions have been copied.

The new bill will expand the scope of the National Commission for Children (NCC) to cover the establishment of a child-friendly complaints mechanism, and assigning responsibilities to a child based on their age and ability.

In the area of protecting the rights of children who come in conflict with the law, the revised Child Rights Bill will help to improve the juvenile justice system in the country, as it makes provision for a diversion of certain cases to the juvenile court for the trial of child offenders.

Chairperson, Parliamentary Committee on Gender and Children, Hon. Katherine Tarawally

Speaking recently at a press conference, National Coordinator of the Child Rights Coalition, Boi-Jenneh Jalloh said they pleased to see the Committee accept crucial recommendations that include diversion to provide alternative measures for young offenders that promote reform, adding that such will help to address the issue of juvenile justice in the country," she maintained.

It is the view of many observers and rights activists that the bill, if passed into law, will enhance the rights of children across the country and enables them realise their potentials.

IGP Sellu assures citizens of security before, during & after elections

IGP Sellu

As the country is soon to go into the June 24th General Elections, IGP Sellu has assured Sierra Leoneans that the police, in collaboration with other security apparatus, will provide security before, during and after the elections and that there is no cause to fear. He assured that they have put modalities in place to nip any issue that may infringe on the rights of citizens to enjoy the peace and tranquility of the country.

In an exclusive interview with this writer, IGP Sellu maintained that it is the duty of the Sierra Leone Police to provide internal security for its citizens, as well as all residents in the country, and they are determined to do exactly that. He furthered that under his watch, the SLP and other security apparatus have held several fruitful meetings to ensure that the security of everyone is guaranteed. He maintained that all the security measures put in place to monitor the movement of people at night has been part of their activities to forestall any move by unscrupulous people to disturb the peace and tranquility of the nation, and that such activities will continue. These activities, he stressed had yielded positive results for the sector.

He furthered that the police will be able to go about its usual mobile patrols with the vehicles available before, during and after the elections to ensure that law and order is maintained across the country. He commended all LUCs across the country for their vigilance, which has instilled more confidence in the police from citizens, and admonished all not to be drawn into any action that will threaten the peace of the country, stressing that whilst people have rights, they should also know that with each right comes responsibility. He called on all to remain law abiding and peaceful in their day to day activities.

IG Sellu furthered that the SLP has engaged and will continue to engage all political parties and Elections Management Bodies on maintaining and preserving the peace of the country. To political parties, he admonished them to ask the police for assistance whenever they have meetings that should be policed, rather than depend on private security. The police, he went on is charged with the responsibility to safeguard everyone, irrespective of their political affiliations, and this they are determined to maintain.

Concluding his interview, IGP Sellu once again assured Sierra Leoneans that the June 24th Elections will be peaceful and that they have nothing to fear. He admonished them no to listen and take the advice of people to disrupt the elections, as anyone contemplating on such will only have himself to blame, as the police will not allow the peace of the country to be disturbed.

LOCAL NEWS 2023 mayoral elections: Who owns Freetown?

By Ishmael Dumbuya

Yvonne Aki-Sawyer

Yvonne Aki-Sawyer in 2018 became Freetown's first female mayor in 38 years. During her tenure however, she raised hackles with her style and for projects she prioritized.

"When you are assertive, you're described as being stubborn. I heard that the other day, 'she's stubborn'. I'm like, 'really?' If this was a man in my position, I don't think the position he'd taken would be regarded as being stubborn. Why am I stubborn? Is it because I have my own point of view? And I'm sticking to it," she noted.

Yvonne Aki-Sawyer, a member of the main opposition party, the All Peoples Congress, announced on the 1st March 2023 at the Attouga Mini Stadium that she is running again for the mayoral seat. She handed over the mayoral chains to the Council's Chief Administrator, Festus Kallay, in accordance with an order handed down to all mayors and chairpersons of Local Councils by the minister of local government to vacate office on 1st March 2023.

One of Aki-Sawyer's key goals has been to overhaul the city's manual taxation system. With financial support from the UK Government, the mayor had satellite images taken and measured rooftops and other metrics to build up a digital property tax database.

She claims to have brought 70 percent more taxpayers into the system. She also raised rates on those already paying tax.

Arm-wrestling with government

But within days of its rollout, the programme was frozen by the national authorities for nearly a year, and compliance remains low.

"Effectively, the city had been running with no revenue," she concedes. "And so it wasn't really running. And so being able to explain to people that if you want your garbage collected, if you want, you know, trees planted, if you want the municipal schools maintained, if you just want service, it has to be paid for."

It is common for Freetown mayors to go head-to-head with the central government. But the backlash Aki-Sawyer has received for doing so seems unprecedented.

Unfortunately, she seems to be falling directly in their trap -- she had had have a court matters until it's time to nominate candidates for election.

Mayor Aki-Sawyer has been audited, investigated for corruption and summoned to testify about her initiatives in parliament.

She has also fought charges of obstructing the police and disorderly behaviour over the arrest of one of her city councillors. He was accused of incitement over cost of living protests on August 10th 2022 which spiralled into anti-government riots.

Sympathizers and opponents

Some residents refused to pay property tax because they claim that it is unfair to raise rates on existing taxpayers, while providing inadequate services.

"I have to do the roads myself, I have to do the drains myself, and I'm paying property taxes?," one Victoria doing business along Goderich Street noted, and also accusing her of milking the tax issue to appeal to poorer voters. The mayor does have sympathisers. "She has a lot of challenges... but she still is pushing," said Fatu Jannah, chairlady for Sewa Market Ground.

Last year, Yvonne Aki-Sawyer provided shades in markets to protect vendors from the hot sun. In the slums, she has worked with donors to construct public toilets and water taps.

But as Aki-Sawyer's first term has ended, much of her agenda has been thwarted by rows and legal battles.

Mohamed Gento Kamara

Another new kid on the block for the mayoral position is Mohamed Gento Kamara. Gento is an engineer and the owner of Gento Group of Companies.

Gento was endorsed by President Bio at the 13th National Delegates' Conference of the Sierra Leone Peoples Party (SLPP). President Bio openly endorsed the candidature of Mohamed Gento Kamara as the only contending mayoral candidate who has been awarded the mayoral symbol to contest for the position.

A lot of Freetonians have raised concerns that Gento is unfit for the mayoral position because he is an engineer and not a politician. Over the years, we have seen Gento being given series of contracts for road construction across the country and that has earned him some amount of popularity in Freetown.

Gento's relationship with Freetonians

Honestly speaking, however, the popularity of Yvonne Aki-Sawyer largely surpasses that of Gento, as long as Freetown is concerned. On that note, Gento has promised the construction of more roads if he is elected. Over the past months we have seen Gento campaigning across the country to an extent even giving out money to win the loyalty and supports of Freetonians.

Couple of weeks ago, Gento uttered a statement that had Freetonians frowned at him. Mohamed Gento Kamara is facing a major backlash for preaching religious and tribal bigotry in a Freetown mosque.

The Sierra Leone Inter-Religious Council, the Sierra Leone Labour Congress, the Sierra Leone Association of Journalists, the opposition All People's Congress (APC), the former President of the Sierra Leone Bar Association, Mrs. Basita Michael, prominent citizens and leading newspapers in the country have condemned Mr. Gento Kamara for his petulance. However, Gento later apologized for such a statement and noted that he made the statement in order to garner support from the Muslim community.

Mohamed Gento Kamara has promised to solve the basic needs of Freetonians including hygiene, noting that if elected he will work in the interest of all Freetonians residents within the municipality.

The SLPP Regional Chairman for Western Area Hon. Manso Dumbuya stated that Gento has a huge support in Freetown which is a clear manifestation that Freetonians are determined more than ever before to deliver Mayorship to the SLPP and that they are ready for a positive change. He therefore noted that he would use all his resources for this dream to come true.

He continued that he has three projects namely; sanitation, water, and sustainable electricity for the city of Freetown.

As the clock continue to tick towards June 24, 2023 it is usually the case in these trying times for those who are aspiring for political positions and especially the supporters of the two dominant parties, SLPP and APC to keep outdoing themselves in trying to make themselves relevant to the electorates, win their support and votes.

While all the politicking is taking place, a rumour is being widely peddled physically and via the social media that Mohamed Gento Kamara, is mainly aspiring to be elected as Mayor of the Freetown Municipality because he is only interested in amassing wealth for personal aggrandizement and going further to state that he may want to use his position as Mayor to make himself filthy rich at the expense of residents of the Freetown Metropolis.

Gento continued that he has always reiterated when addressing his people that his focal vision is to sway away from anything that will destroy the attainment of paradise underscoring that if becoming the Mayor of Freetown will contravene that he will ask God not to grant his aspiration.

He mentioned how he has always loved serving his people in their best interests and in the interest of Allah concurrently.

The affable, charismatic and result oriented political aspirant used the opportunity to beseech Freetonians to come together with undivided attention in making sure the leadership of the municipality of Freetown is saved from savages.

Gento pointed out categorically that he can tell, with no personal animosity, that the leadership of Freetown has dwelled in the hands of poor leadership calling on all to elect a reasonable leader who will serve in the interest of Freetonians.

He enjoined all to join the Gento Movement, vote him as the next Mayor and make the expected change for Freetown.

So the big question now is; can Gento's popularity outweigh that of Aki-Sawyer or vice-versa?

It's no secret that Yvonne Aki-Sawyer has huge popularity in Freetown even though she is faced with a lot of challenges coming from the central government, she still owns Freetown.

He said India has always maintained good bilateral relationship with Sierra Leone, noting that the ink donated are of high quality and will help immensely in the voting process of the June 24 general elections.

He said India has also helped in building the human capital of the commission by training their Information Technology (I.T) officers for which they are grateful.

The Kingho Railway and Port (KRP), a subsidiary of the Leone Rock Metal Group (LRMG) on Saturday, 8th April, 2023 Launched the Upgrade and Reconstruction Project of Railway & Port operations with a total investment of $153M USD to international standards.

The auspicious event was held at the Railway and Port Site in Pepel, Port Loko District, North-West Region in the presence of the Vice President of Sierra Leone, Dr. Juldeh Jalloh, The Chinese Ambassador to Sierra Leone, Mr. Wang Qing, Kingho Energy Group President, Mr. Colin Ding, LRMG's CEO, Mr. Gilbert Zhao, Presidential Spokesman, Mr. Alpha Kanu, Ministers, Honorables, the CTO, Mr. Salim Sillah, Community Stakeholders, Management & Staff of LRMG and other dignitaries from various sectors in the country.

It could be recalled that In January 2021, the government of Sierra Leone through the Ministry of Mines and Mineral Resources and the National Minerals Agency (NMA) signed the lease agreement granting Leone Rock Metal Group the right to operate the railway and port facility. Ever since the signing of the lease agreement the company have worked judiciously and strictly under the guidelines of the agreement to fulfil all its obligations and mandate and has embarked on several routine and periodic localised maintenance of the facilities to maintain a smooth haulage and port management operation.

The Presidential Spokesman, Alpha Kanu remarked that he has continuously attended LRMG's events because he has gained lot of respect and admiration for the company's strategic planning and management abilities. He

He commented "Successful revenue growth for the country can attract investors or partners which will in turn fulfill government's redistributive role. Additionally, Revenue from this project can be invested in the physical fabric communities- enhancing the sporting, cultural and educational bonds that bring young people together who may otherwise be engaged in crime".

The Ambassador to Sierra Leone from the People's Republic of China, Wang Qing, established that Sierra Leone-China relationship is sustainable and development-oriented. Additionally, he proceeded that the project is a journey of mutual benefits. He continued "This project is a key to a smooth transportation operation, a top priority for LRMG was to invest in the Rail and Port when it was handed over to the company in a dysfunctional state in October 2020. However, LRMG as a forward-thinking company, today officially launched the upgrading and reconstruction project of the Railway and Port is another new investment shown and proven to be crucial in the company and Sierra Leone".

"I am here representing the government and the people of Sierra Leone, and I am pleased with the company's strategic plan to expand the Rail and Port so that other users can have access and work collaboratively with LRMG" stated Dr. Mohamed Juldeh Jalloh, Honourable Vice President of SL. Dr. Juldeh Jalloh ended by thanking LRMG for their immense support towards complimenting government's vision and growth pace as it correlated with how mining communities and sector can significantly benefit in the company's operations. He also commended LRMG for signing an MOU with CTC which indicates the company's support to third users of the Rail and Port as he informs all of government's vision to work with LRMG to establish a hub for mineral exports in SL.

The United Nations Population Fund West and Central Africa Regional Office welcomes the high-level Ministerial Commitment for Educated, Healthy and Thriving Adolescents and Young People in the region, endorsed by Ministers of Education and Health from 24 countries in the region, in a meeting held in Brazzaville, Republic of Congo, under the WCA [West and Central] Commitment. The Commitment speaks to a clear progression towards achieving Goals 4-10 of the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) on health, education and gender equality.

The WCA Commitment serves as a platform to strengthen the Region in its quest to attain the demographic dividend, through ensuring access to wide-ranging education and health services to adolescents and young people.

Governments in the region have been working on the creation of an enabling legal and policy framework for the provision of youth friendly sexual and reproductive health services.

UNFPA welcomes high-level commitment for Educated, Healthy and Thriving Adolescents and Young People in West and Central Africa

Since 2020, 18 countries held consultations to explore tangible recommendations for comprehensive information and education, which formed the basis of the Commitment.

UNFPA welcomes this historic ministerial commitment by member states in the Region as a demonstration of the importance they accord to investing in the capacity of adolescents and young people, including in comprehensive sexuality education as a critical element to forming healthy and educated citizens.

UNFPA stands with the global community in support of regional partners, national and local governments, frontline practitioners, civil society actors and young people themselves, to advance age appropriate, evidence-based and timely comprehensive information and education on SRHR for adolescents and youth all over the world, in both formal and non-formal settings, with a special focus on the most vulnerable and left behind.

The WCA Commitment comes against a backdrop of extremely high maternal mortality estimates for the West and Central Africa, in the recently published 2020 report on maternal mortality estimates by international inter-agency technical working group. In some countries in the Region, upper primary and lower secondary school drop outs are high due to teen pregnancy. Teen fertility ranges between 100 and 189 per 1000; 2 in 5 girls are married before the age of 18. Access to age-appropriate comprehensive sexuality education will go a long way to ensuring that girls remain longer in school and ensuring Rights and Choices for all, towards inclusive and productive societies.
